"What an honour to join in official celebrations, and be welcomed by principal Rod McKenzie and school captains Lily Carville and Brydon Marshall."

Ms Crugnale expressed "a massive heartfelt thank you" to everyone involved and made special mention of past School Council president Brendan Cashman, who started this journey with Rod McKenzie back in 2018, and school council president Carly O'Brien.

'This school deserves the best facilities and learning environments to match the dedication, care and energy of the teaching and support staff," she commented.

Principal Rod McKenzie said that the gym was certainly worth the wait, and makes Cowes Primary one of the best resourced primary schools in Victoria, with the old gymnasium now transformed into a brand new arts centre, and a dedicated STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) facility.

"PICAL will ensure that it executes its November move over a few days so that the VHBA can immediately access the site to commence the demolition.

Colonnades couch caper

Two large couches were dumped near the entrance to the Colonnades in Cape Woolamai early last week.

The couches were just metres from a Bass Coast Shire sign warning that dumping rubbish was illegal and the area was monitored by cameras.

When mattresses were dumped in the Back Beach Road service lane in January this year, the council said if offenders are identified, they will be prosecuted.

"Illegal rubbish and green waste dumping is a criminal offence with significant penalties, and it is a cost to the community to clean up," a council spokesperson

Evidence is key to catching offenders, so council asks anyone who finds or witnesses illegal dumping to remember to get as much information as possible. This includes photographic evidence (if safe to do so) and vehicle registration details, locations and times of illegal dumping if this can be done safely as this will support the investigation.

"All instances of illegal dumping reported to Council that can be linked back to an individual are investigated by Council's Community Safety Team, with a view to fining or prosecuting identified offenders," the spokesperson said.

Areas around Bass Coast Shire are monitored for illegal dumping and members of the community are encouraged to report illegal dumping to Council or the EPA on 1300 EPA VIC (372 842).

Outrage at mine expansion approval

Grantville residents and conservationists have condemned the Victorian Planning Minister's approval of a sand mine expansion, saying it ignores the needs of tourism and the com-

Residents say the decision to approve the Dandy Premix mine expansion will impact their health and will also see the Bass Highway around Grantville heavily congested, with 240 trucks a day on the highway and a new set of traffic lights.

In 2020 Minister Richard Wynne used his powers to override Bass Coast Shire and call in the Dandy Premix plans, with councillors speaking against the mine expansion.

Last March Mr Wynne convened a planning panel to advise on the application to expand the mine.

Mr Wynne last week announced approval of the mine expansion, not only permitting an increase in truck movements from 120 to 240 a day, but also increasing operating hours, with trucks to run 6am to 2am on weekdays and 6am to 10pm on Saturdays.

The company will also be allowed to install traffic lights on the Bass Highway so their trucks can make a right-hand turn from their quarry site towards Melbourne.

Dandy's open cut mine will operate for up to 40 years and remove 13 hectares of vegetation, including digging below the water table, and will wash sand on site.

As part of the approval, there is also a recommendation for an investigation to determine the potential risk of exposure to respirable crystalline silica, which mine opponents say can cause incurable lung disease.

Residents Gil Smith and Janice Hughes said the increase in truck movements was a major concern.

"We're already copping about 30 trucks an hour going past our place," Mr Smith said.

Ms Hughes said dust exacerbated her lung problems and made it difficult for her to breathe, adding she already wiped windowsills and other surfaces every day and had to wash her windscreen before she can drive her car.

They said dust was a major issue for objectors, but the panel had accepted company assurances that dust treatment is adequate despite dust storms being a major problem for nearby residents over the past summer.

Opposition

Save Western Port Woodlands (SWPW) said they were "dismayed" by the Planning Minister's decision to approve the "massive" expansion, despite more than 70 objections, including expert evidence that found the mine expansion could release a cocktail of toxic chemicals into Western Port bay.

SWPW spokesperson Tim O'Brien said the government talked tough on protecting the environment, but was "missing in action when it comes to putting reasonable limits on a destructive industry

"It makes a joke of the community's wishes." Mr O'Brien said the Dandy Premix decision was an indication of the government's determination that nothing should be permitted to obstruct sand mining, even with Bass Coast being declared a Distinctive Area and Landscape.

"It seems like this cossetted industry is more valuable than not just the environment but also Bass Coast's much more economically beneficial tourism industry and even residents themselves," he said.

"The Planning Minister is supposed to weigh up a balance for the community between development and the environment and social issues.'

SWPW said the panel report states before land clearing can start Dandy Premix must survey to determine whether the threatened green striped greenhood plant was present in the woodland area.

But Mr O'Brien said the 13-hectare property was part of a crucial biolink in a rare coastal

"We will be calling on Bass Coast Shire Council and the Department of Environment, Land. Water and Planning to be a lot more vigilant this time round in ensuring the company actually meets its obligations."

Shock, dismay and disappointment at sand mine approval

The local community expressed dismay and shock at the decision by Planning Minister Richard Wynne to approve the expansion of a Grantville sand mine.

The Save Western Port Woodlands (SWPW) campaigned vigorously against the Coast, however this decision by the state govexpansion and said it was dismayed by the decision, which came despite more than 70 objections (see separate story).

Bass Coast Shire Council echoed the group's concerns, saying it was shocked and disappointed that the "controversial sand mine in Grantville will go ahead".

Richard Wynne's approval this week permits Dandy Premix to clear 13 hectares of vegetation in the Western Port Woodlands for a new pit, to massively expand its current pit, including digging below the water table, and to wash sand on site.

Bass Coast Shire Council Mayor, Cr Michael Whelan said it was devastating to see that the decision has seemingly ignored the concerns of both Council and the community around the expansion.

"This decision runs counter to the Distinctive Areas and Landscapes objective of revegetation and protecting native vegetation," Cr Whelan said.

"Dandy Premix has not met the revegetation requirements of the current permit and the wildlife corridor that was to be planted in 2013 is still not complete.

Wynne to the Wettenhall Report, as it expressed concerns that toxic material would leach into Westernport – this also appears to have been disregarded in this decision.

'The environment is our economy in Bass ernment shows that it does not put the same value on the environment as it does on the economy, which is incredibly concerning."

The permit conditions specifically require a Biodiversity Assessment Report and Offset Management, Biodiversity and Vegetation Management and Species Protection Management plans to be completed.

Focus on farming, not tourism: VFF

Victoria's peak farm body has criticised the state government's new planning rules for Phillip Island and Bass Coast, saying they are tourism-centric and undermine agricultural businesses.

Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) president Emma Germano has written a submission to the government's Bass Coast Distinctive Areas and Landscape project's draft Statement of Planning Policy (SPP), saying it has "unintended negative consequences on agriculture'

The draft SPP needs to understand farms located in Bass Coast are working farms and not just there for nice landscape views," Ms Germano writes.

The submission accuses the government of giving "unfettered support to agritourism' rather than protecting existing agricultural businesses, which are largely grazing, dairy Tourists do not understand that farming in these areas can be noisy, dusty and odorous at various times of the year and the management of crops and livestock can also have a big impact on the way the landscape looks," she savs

"Agricultural use should take precedence in the farming zone over other uses such as tourism, as productive agricultural land located so close to cities and ports is important to maintain now and into the future.

Frustration

Ms Germano writes the draft SPP's controls for fences and farm buildings, which "will introduce unnecessary stress onto farmers who in a farming zone can generally build a shed or fence as of right".

"It also puts extra costs onto farm businesses who will have to pay for these planning permits.

Ms Germano's submission is critical of the lack of consultation undertaken by the Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning on the draft SPP.

views and needs of the farming community."

Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) president Emma Germano has written a submission saying the Bass Coast DAL draft Statement of Planning Policy (SPP), has "unintended negative consequences on agriculture".

She says when a meeting was organised between DELWP and farmers in April, "staff from DELWP took up much of the time speaking leaving little time for residents to express their concerns and ask questions".

When residents raised their concerns the only answer that was given was that they should submit to the consultation process.

This was frustrating to residents who will require farmers to get planning permits thought that at this meeting DELWP staff would listen and make note of their concerns, however, this did not occur."

The Phillip Island Conservation Society (PICS) in their submission to the DAL also said planning permits for farm fences were "impractical and unnecessary", but supported permit requirements for the siting and design of farm buildings.

PICS does not support the permit require-"It has not listened to and understood the ment for the removal of exotic tree rows or exotic shelterbelts.

The PICS submission on the DAL states it "strongly supports" the proposed town boundaries for Phillip Island.

Protect what little we have left: submission

Conflicts about homes on Phillip Island's from the Cowes-Rhyll Road corridor and Oscoast should be avoided by strengthening planning rules, according to a submission to the state government.

With community consultation on the Distinctive Areas and Landscape project's draft Statement of Planning Policy (SPP) closing on April 29, the Phillip Island Conservation Society (PICS) lodged a submission calling for better protection of Phillip Island's beaches from nearby development.

"Foreshore reserves and adjacent settlement zones are a frequent setting for planning conflicts regarding vegetation removal and the appropriateness, location, design, height, and placement of buildings and infrastructure," the PICS submission states

"Conflicts often involve impacts on the seascape and views from the beach and foreshore—for example, where proposed buildings would be seen above foreshore vegetation."

The submission states given that planning policies value preservation of both seascape and landscape this should be better reflected in the draft SPP's preferred character statements for all coastal settlements and associated plan-

Further protection

The PICS submission calls for an expansion of the draft SPP's planning rules to be moved west of Coghlan Road in Cowes.

Currently the draft proposes a significant landscape overlay to include Rhyll and the Phillip Island Golf Club, east of Coghlan Road.

The submission states the undeveloped land bounded by Coghlan Road, Rhyll Road, and the southern section of the golf course is prone to flooding - draining into the Rhyll Inlet - and could include acid sulphate soils.

"It is part of the vista towards Western Port posed developments."

win Roberts Reserve.

"PICS recommends the significant landscape overlay boundary is expanded slightly west to Coghlan Road to align with the proposed eastern protected settlement boundary

PICS also states it "strongly supports" the proposed town boundaries for Phillip Island.

"Planning zoning in areas beyond protected settlement boundaries must not be relaxed to allow subdivision or development that is incompatible with landscape and biodiversity values."

Vegetation

The PICS submission supports the draft SPP's planning controls as "an opportunity to arrest" the loss of vegetation and habitat across

"Despite existing policies and planning controls designed to conserve this rare and valuable natural resource, remnant vegetation in Bass Coast Shire is still being destroyed at an alarming rate where there is conflict with other land uses," it says.

We wish to emphasise how little remnant vegetation is left within Bass Coast Shire. Less than 10 per cent of pre-1700 indigenous vegetation remains within Bass Coast, more than 10 ecological vegetation classes are endangered, three are vulnerable, and three are severely depleted.

The habitat value of old-growth vegetation cannot be replaced by offsets, and economic development is simply not environmentally sustainable where it results in destruction of remnant vegetation."

The submission also calls for planning controls to limit noise and light pollution, including noise and light pollution assessments for pro-

Alliance responds to DAL

An alliance of 14 local community groups have called on the state government to amend planning policies to protect farmers and tighten Cowes' town boundaries.

The group of 14 - including Island Voice, transport and environment organisations have written a combined submission to the government's Bass Coast Distinctive Areas and Landscape project's draft Statement of Planning Policy (SPP), calling for seven key

Don't hesitate to

The submission states Cowes east's town boundary should be tightened, bringing it further west from the current easterly boundary at Coghlan Road, keeping the same distance from Settlement Road (to the north).

The alliance's submission calls for a range of proposed planning rules in the draft SPP for coastal farmers to be relaxed or removed.

Currently the draft SPP proposes planning permit requirements for fencing, with the submission requesting this be removed.

Equally the submission calls for farming structures such as cattle yards, silos and water tanks to be exempt from permit requirements.

The draft SPP also states a permit will be required to remove, destroy or lop native vegetation and exotic tree rows or shelterbelts, with the alliance rejecting this and calling for no permit requirements.

The alliance calls for landscape protections to apply to public land, not just private.

The submission also calls for sand mining to be phased out of Bass Coast by 2025 and for a reduction of the Cape Paterson settlement boundary, which is currently targeted for major expansion.

Alliance

Bass Coast Shire councillors - led by Cr David Rooks - gathered the 14 groups to create the alliance, in order to provide feedback to the state government on the draft SPP.

The groups include the Phillip Island Integrated Transport Study Reference Group, Landcare, Phillip Island Conservation Society, Totally Renewable Phillip Island and the Small Coastal Towns Alliance.

The groups had a presentation from the Department of Environment, Land, Water and Planning in April and held a workshop in May.

Building a Bushbank collection

Give or take a few metres, James Anderson has a very narrow area of expertise.

"I'm a specialist of about 1km of the coastline," says James, the nursery coordinator of the Barb Martin Bushbank.

That 1km stretches to both land and sea.

On the ocean side, the 45-year-old father-of-two is a knee-boarding surf pro.

He has won six world titles, seven Victorian titles, a junior world title and is still a keen competitor, having taken part in the recent Phillip Island Pro.

"I just love the water. I actually started knee-boarding on a school camp to Phillip Island when I was 14 and I haven't stopped.

"I'm getting old and sore but they're injuries from landscaping and skateboarding, not surfing.

For his career, James has strayed only a very short distance from the ocean's edge, specialising in coastal indigenous plant species and propa-

"I'm a man of the ocean. Plants are what I do when I come ashore.

James started at the Barb Martin Bushbank in late 2020, not long after the native plant nursery was taken over by Phillip Island Nature Parks.

Since that time he has expanded the list of varieties from 96 to 135, especially focused on rare and threatened species

On average James - supported by a small army of about 50 volunteers – propagates and grows out an average annual 100,000 plants, with up to 40,000 used by Nature Parks for revegetation, up to 40,000 sold to Bass Coast Shire and Landcare and 20,000 for the public.

Expansion

This year the Bushbank is also expanding out into an 18 x 18 metre area, in order to accommodate a new sale item:

Traditionally we have sold tube stock but there's a market for bigger, more established

"So we're not trying to grow everything across a whole range of sizes."

Tube stock is still priced at $3, but now they offer plants in 300mm pots for up to $50.

James says as diverse as his role is, it's the seed collection that is one of the toughest parts of the job.

For four months of the year he heads out across Nature Parks' 2000 hectares, head down, bum up, sourcing seeds, which are then processed.

"To give you an idea we went out and collected garbage bags-full of spinifex and then spent 80 hours to get 2200 seeds, and the next day all those seeds were eaten by

"So we face the same challenges here as domestic gardeners do.

Threatened species

Working for the Bushbank, James says he has focused on not just reproducing core plant varieties but expanding the growing list to include threatened plants.

"Part of my job is to encourage the public, government, groups to plant indigenous species for wildlife and habitat. Indigenous plants are tough and largely self-sustaining, not requiring the food and inputs like some other plants.

In fact a lot of threatened species are the easiest ones to grow, although there are some difficult ones.

James says he works closely with Nature Parks rangers who have mapped Phillip Island's plant species and can provide him with GPS coordinates to find rare and threatened plants for seed collection. "I also have done this all my life so I know what to look for. They're like my friends.

"People always ask how I remember all the names and facts of plants, but they know what football team their uncle barracks for and what car he

"For me plants are like my family members. It's easy to take notice of them."

He says rangers told him plants sold to home garden-about one rare plant, salt lawrencia, at Fishers Wetland but it soon turned out it could no longer be found on Phillip Island.

James then hunted So around and sourced seed from across the bay at Hastings, and is now propagating salt lawrencia to plant out here.

Home gardens

The top three most popular ers include sea lavender, grass trigger plants and olearia.

James advises novice green thumbs to come into the Bushbank, have a chat and come armed with photos of plants and gardens wanting to be replicated.

'It's good to chat because I need to customise plants to where they live. On Phillip Island it's all about the geology,' says James, who currently lives in Kilcunda, but is building a home at Hamer's Haven.

'Silverleaves and Cape Woolamai, for example, are sandy, whereas Wimbledon Heights and Berrys Beach are heavy clay.

"Most come in and are happy to take advice, which means I can recommend threatened species because it's not only good for biodiversity, but they are generally great landscape plants and have good success.

James grew up in the UK, in a family of plant lovers, and moved to the Mornington Peninsula when he was 13, after school completing apprenticeships in nursery production, landscaping and also a civil construction traineeship.

He worked in large statefunded landscaping projects and then later ran his own business working in high-end domestic landscape architec-

"The architect would design them and I would build them. Design is not my thing.

"My focus and goal then, like now, is to get indigenous plants into people's backyards.'

Mapping Phillip Island's climate impacts tively uninsurable by 2030, due to rising risks of extreme weather and climate change, a detailed analysis from the Climate Council has found.

The analysis, released last week, found about 16 per cent of Silverleaves properties (61 homes) would be vulnerable to coastal inundation by 2030, rising to 93 per cent (523) by 2100, under a high emission scenario.

Other climate impacts on Phillip Island - under a high emission scenario – would include surface water flooding and bushfires, which would see eight per cent of Cape Woolamai properties at risk by 2100.

By the end of this century, at Newhaven seven per cent of properties will be at risk, six per cent at both Rhyll and Ventnor, while in Cowes 125 homes will be at high risk and 170 at medium risk (3.7 per cent), and at San Remo one per cent, with a shire-wide risk of 13 per cent.

Hundreds of millions of data points - or 14 million Australian addresses - were analysed

Some Phillip Island properties will be effec- by Climate Valuation, which the Climate Council transformed into an interactive Climate Risk Map, showing the physical risk extreme weather and climate change poses to homes around the country over the next decade and into the future.

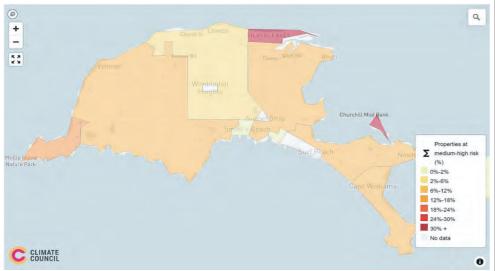

Dr Karl Mallon, CEO of Climate Valuation, said insurers and banks were already quantifying risks from climate change.

'It's essential that Australians inform themselves about these risks to their safety and financial wellbeing, which are well known to financial institutions and governments," Dr Mallon said.

"It's striking how the number of affected properties grows under higher emissions scenarios. Reducing emissions would potentially save thousands of homes from worsening damage.

"I encourage all homeowners and buyers to ensure they fully understand the local hazards and get a property-specific report on their risk."

Local artist Zev Landes has created two mascots for the Island Whale Festival and organisers are running a competition to name the mascots, with fabulous prizes on offer.

lp name the whales!

The Island Whale Festival returns on July 1 · 3 and has two new mascots in desperate need Organisers of the festival, which is now in its sixth year, are running a competition to name its Humpback Whale and Southern Right Whale characters.

We have engaged the very talented local artist Zev Landes to create our new mascots - a Humpback and a Southern Right Whale," said Kim Storey from Destination Phillip Island.

"Now our new mascots need some names, and we need your help!"

The prize for each winner (one for each character) is a family ticket for a three-hour Dolphin and Whale cruise on Wildlife Coast Cruises valued at $328 each.

Competition links are on the IslandWhales Facebook page and close on Wednesday May 25. Festival organisers are hoping this year's event will be the best yet.

"Destination Phillip Island is working on an exciting program with our Festival partners Phillip Island Nature Parks, the Dolphin Research Institute, Wildlife Coast Cruises, Two Bays Whale Project and Bass Coast Shire Council." Kim said.

"There will be lots of activities for the kids, science presentations and displays. This year's Festival Hub will be at St Philip's Church and the Masonic Hall in Cowes. Events will also be held at The Nobbies and Woolamai Life Saving Club.

"The Whale out of Water will be back in the marquee and we are excited to present the short film Regenerating Australia by Damon Gameau, the award-winning director of 2040 and That Sugar Film.

"This film looks at what Australia would look like in 2030 if we simply listened to the needs of its people.

As the weather cools down, people are getting excited about the return of the whales and the start of whale watching season.

Kim hopes whale-loving locals will jump at the chance to christen the festival mascots and said illustrator Zev Landes' was an ideal choice for the whale festival.

"Zev is a published cartoonist and illustrator whose artwork celebrates the ridiculousness of life through humour.

"His playful characters bring to life issues of wildlife conservation, social commentary and even surfing. His cartoons, illustrations, animations and infographics tell the stories of creatures that will make you laugh and stir your heart."

A recent article about young scooter riders (The Advertiser, April 22, page 10) has sparked an energetic debate on social media.

Many people voiced their concern about the potential for accidents, especially youngsters riding without helmets and carrying too many passengers.

The debate has also highlighted the confusion over bikes/scooters and the relevant rules. One reader, Marina pointed out although the article referred to Vespa, the image used was a Puri e-Bike, legally classified as a pedal bike.

"A Vespa is a motorbike. Very different," she said.

"Yes riders need to wear helmets and limit the number of passengers but they also have to comply with all the same laws pedal bikes/push bikes do.

"They are not allowed to be ridden on the footpath.

However Marina agreed riding the bikes on the footpath was "extremely dangerous as well as stress inducing".

Another resident said the classification was determined by the throttle speed limits on the bike.

Others chimed in to voice their concern about the danger to older residents.

"We see this every day in Cowes. They are on the footpath and come around the corner so fast that they nearly hit pedestrians. They are so dangerous," said Robyn.

"They are outside the Woolies shopping centre every day flying down the footpaths and into traffic, no care for pedestrians or motorists. So dangerous ... no helmets either," Janine wrote.

'With idiots on skateboards, people on e-bikes, people riding bicycles on the footpath when there is a dedicated lane in Thompson Avenue, it is only a matter of time before an innocent pedestrian is seriously injured or killed," said Jill.

"I did write to the police some 18 months ago and I am still waiting for them to do something about it.'

Other readers came to the defence of the young riders.

"There's plenty of elderly on their scooters who shouldn't be allowed to drive them," Liane

"One elderly grumpy man nearly ran over my granddaughter at Woolworth's footpath." Damien agreed.

"Let's be honest, there are more dangerous senior drivers on the island than kids with scooters.

"There just needs to be more education provided for the kids. You can't punish kids for being independent.

You're not going to see a kid driving a scooter through the wall of a restaurant! You will a senior, and they have a licence."

Local police have run education sessions on scooters and e-bikes through the schools alongside a state-wide campaign.

A spokesperson said local police would discuss how best to address the issue, suggesting a campaign targeting and fining offenders could

Bumper flu season concerns

Victorians are being urged to get their flu vaccination, with health authorities concerned a big flu season could be on the way.

As the weather gets colder and COVID-19 restrictions continue to ease, people are being urged to get their flu jabs to help reduce pressure on our health system.

The vaccine is free to anyone in a high-risk category, including people aged over 65, children aged six months to five years of age, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, pregnant women, and people with medical conditions putting them at increased risk of severe flu.

Chief Health Officer Professor Brett Sutton said with international borders reopening, more social mixing occurring and other pandemic restrictions easing, ensuring your flu and Covid vaccinations are up to date will help protect you - and others - during winter.

"Victoria has seen low rates of the flu over the last two years due to closed international borders and social distancing measures to deal with the COVID-19 pandemic," Professor Sutton said.

"That also means that this winter is a really critical time to be protected with flu vaccinations.

"Vaccination against a highly contagious viral infection like flu is key to protecting yourself and those around you and will ensure we don't put further pressure on our health system." Influenza is a seasonal infection that usually occurs from April to September and can cause severe illness and life-threatening complications regardless of age. In a year of high influenza activity, it is estimated the flu can contribute to more than 3300 deaths in Australia.

Vaccinations are available from community pharmacies, GPs and council.

No interval is required between the flu and CO-VID-19 vaccinations as they target different viruses. That means both can be given on the same day if you are due for a COVID-19 vaccination.

"If you do get the flu the advice remains the same," said Professor Sutton.

"Stay at home if you're unwell and don't go to work or school.'

Bass Coast Shire Council's 2022 influenza vaccination program has already begun, with a session for Over 65s at St Philip's in Cowes on May 13. Details and bookings are available at www.basscoast.vic.gov.au/community-support-services/health-and-safety/immunisation

Battery project green light

The state government has decided management, location of the storage to grant a permit for the proposed battery energy system on Phillip Island.

The Notice of Decision was issued on April 7.

A spokesperson for the Department of Environment Land Water and Planning (DELWP) said anyone objecting to the proposal had 28 days to appeal to VCAT.

This means, if no appeal is lodged, a planning permit will be issued, and the details will be the same as in the current notice, which includes conditions to address noise and safety concerns.

As we went to print, 28 days had elapsed and there was no confirmation from DELWP of any appeal.

Last year Mondo won the right to deliver the battery for AusNet through a competitive tender process and said the battery storage system will "help balance the fluctuating power demand on the island and support an increase in the uptake of renewable energy".

The proposal is supported by Bass Coast Shire Council, as well as Totally Renewable Phillip Island (TRPI) and the Energy Innovation Cooperative (EIC).

Community concerns

However not everyone in the community has embraced the project.

During community consultation earlier this year, residents raised numerous concerns about potential noise pollution from the site, with one saying the response from Mondo, that the site would be extremely quiet compared to a diesel generator, didn't fill them with confidence.

Other concerns included emergency management and the impact on native vegetation.

The current Notice of Decision requires amended development plans to be submitted and has a range of conditions that address noise, emergency container and native vegetation.

An updated noise assessment report is required before the final plans are endorsed and it must be made available to the public.

The permit contains conditions limiting the noise of the finished project, stating use must at all times comply with EPA noise limit protocols for noise from commercial venues.

It also states that within one month of battery use commencing, a postconstruction acoustic report has to be prepared and submitted to authorities including the state government and council, showing compliance with EPA requirements at all times.

This report must also be made available to the public.

A second report must be done within one year of commencement.

For both reports, the permit states 'If recommendations to limit the noise impacts are made, they must be implemented to the satisfaction of the responsible authority".

Environment

The Notice of Decision states an Environmental Management Plan (EMP) has to be submitted and approved before any development takes place and must ensure the installation avoids and minimises amenity and environmental impacts.

The EMP also has to address impacts on native vegetation, weed management, erosion, ways of managing dust, flooding, surface water quality and stormwater run-off, as well as develop response measures and a system for recording and reporting environmental incidents.

Similarly, a Construction Environment Management Plan and a Drainage and Stormwater Management Plan are required.

Lighting on the site must comply with Australian Standards, to control the obtrusive effects of outdoor lighting, the notice states.

The Notice contains extensive fire and safety requirements - with over 47 listed conditions.

It also allows for 0.020 hectares of native vegetation to be removed, destroyed or lopped.

Any vegetation offsets must be located within the Port Phillip and Westernport CMA boundary or with-

Project must commence within two years of the permit being issued.

The proposed Phillip Island Community Energy Storage System (PIC-ESS) will lease space on the north-east corner of a 45-hectare site, purchased by the Bass Coast Shire Council in 2019 for a new transfer station.

At the time, the council said the transfer station would not use the entire space and other uses would be determined in consultation with the community.

PICESS would comprise of a series of units in a 38 x 34 metre fenced compound, connected to the electricity grid via underground cables, setback 20 metres from Gap Road.

No buildings are proposed on site with control units and other equipment contained in kiosks/cabinets and a storage container.

Last year, Mondo's General Manager Jodie Hallam said the battery is part of a much bigger picture, one that could potentially transform the Phillip Island energy network.

"This is a transition, a first component of an eco-system of new energy,' Jodie said.

"There is a primary need on Phillip Island to make sure that during peak summertime there is enough energy, but the rest is co-designing with the community to create an energy model based on local needs.

The state government has issued a Notice of Decision, which could see a permit issued for a battery energy system on Gap Road comprising of a series of units in a 38 x 34 metre fenced compound, connected to the electricity grid via underground cables.

Storm over PICAL move for community hospital

Concerns

Bass Coast Health CEO Jan Child said while she was not privy to the details of the contract of sale between the council and VHBA, as far as she was aware, August had always been the date the site would be handed over.

She said she also believed the original timeline had PICAL moving to the new Warley Avenue site by the end of 2021.

"On the original timeline, we could have commenced demolishing and the early benching of the site in August," Ms Child said, but noted negotiations with PICAL were handled by the council and BCH had not been involved.

She said she called the meeting between Bass Coast Health, VHBA, PICAL and Bass Coast Shire Council after concerns were raised about the timeframes for the move.

"It was apparent at the meeting that we had different dates," she said.

"PICAL is a brilliant service, so my question was how can we work together, how do we resolve this?

"We have to work together to find a way forward, to keep both PICAL services and the hospital on track," she said.

Ms Child said BCH has offered to temporarily move some services from the Urgent Care Centre to Wonthaggi, to allow PICAL to utilise rooms at the centre.

"I understand that isn't PICAL's ideal," she said.

"But they are going to get back to me with dates when we could meet onsite and talk about what we are going to do."

Ms Child said one reason it was important to maintain the building timeline was to take advantage of cost savings that came from being one of 10 community hospital being built across the state.

"There is a value-add of going with the other sites in terms of procurement. We don't want to lose the capac-

She said the expansion of the Wonthaggi Hospital would "help dramatically" with the surgery catch-up strategy.

"But if we need to keep growing our services, we need Phillip Island's Community Hospital to come on board by 2024."

"Island Voice understands that the former CFA Station at Blue Gum Reserve was to be allocated to PICAL for these training purposes.

"However, we now believe Council has instead allocated this space to other community groups, leaving PICAL without training facilities at

This would leave PICAL with significantly less combined operating space than at the Church Street site, which would require an "urgent review" of PICAL's needs.

PIMHAG has also criticised consultation for the Community Hospital, including a lack of community input into the new hospital design.

"The transparency in this is unbelievably bad," Peter said in April last year.

At the time, he urged the government and BCH to work with PIMHAG to get community input.

Covid clinics to close

Bass Coast Health will close its Commuour values represent. nity Vaccination Clinic and its Covid Testing site in Wonthaggi next week.

The closures are in response to decreasing community demand and in line with other health services across the state, BCH said.

Test figures

During the pandemic, Ms Child said BCH ran a comprehensive testing program, with staff conducting 68,554 Covid tests at Wonthaggi, Cowes and at various pop-up sites at Bass and San Remo.

She said there was no doubt the tests were instrumental in helping people isolate quickly and reduce the spread of the disease in the

The last day of the Community Vaccination Clinic at Wonthaggi Town Hall will be Monday, May 16, although BCH personnel finished staffing the clinic on May 7.

Staff from Latrobe Regional Hospital provided walk-in vaccinations on Monday May 9 from 10.30am to 3.30pm and again on May 17 from 10am to 12pm (closed all other days).

Covid testing at the former McBride Campus of Wonthaggi Secondary College will end at 1pm Saturday May 14.

Ms Child said the time is right and it is now time for the health service to focus its resources on core services

"We are proud of the extensive testing and vaccination services we have offered the community throughout the two years of the pandemic so far," she said.

"These testing and vaccination efforts have ensured our region had high screening and vaccination rates which significantly reduced community transmission of CO-

"We give credit for the extraordinary testing and vaccination effort by our magnificent staff who have worked so hard to keep our community safe.

"They have been true frontline heroes whose teamwork, along with compassion and excellence, demonstrated everything

"These excellent staff are our most valuable asset and we hope many of them will stay with us in other roles."

Ms Child said the pandemic response had shown that if needed, BCH has proven it can respond quickly to community needs.

'Ît is extremely important to acknowledge that our ability to transition both these services now, to the primary health sector, is possible because the demand for these services is low.

'Of course, if the Department of Health ever sees a need for state run clinics to bolster the primary care sector again, we will do a call to arms.

Most importantly, Ms Child said it was still critically important to get tested and to get vaccinated.

We are not by any means out of this pandemic. We are just coming down from a peak of a significant surge, and sadly, we anticipate others.

We will always advocate that people take the advice of the experts with regard to vaccination, and keep themselves optimally vaccinated, and we encourage people to test."

Ms Child thanks the many partners that made the testing and vaccination efforts possible including the Education Department for the use of the former McBride Campus, Shadow Security and Event Ops for their work at the sites, Gippsland Region Public Health Unit for support and guidance and Bass Coast Shire Council for the use of the Town Hall.

Vaccination and testing options

Vaccinations

• Covid vaccinations are available at GP clinics, six Gippsland Respiratory Clinics and participating pharmacies by appointment.

• The Gippsland Region Public Health Unit will continue to ensure the community has access to Covid vaccinations. The mobile Covid vaccination bus wil also provide outreach vaccination opportunities throughout the region.

Testing

- Wonthaggi Medical Group continue to provide symptomatic testing and treatment at their clinic where appointments are available via their website or on 0429 036 568
- RAT tests will be available from Wonthaggi Hospital from Monday May 16 (details to be confirmed).
- RAT tests are also available at most pharmacists (free for pensioners), at schools for students, as well as select service stations and supermarkets
- RAT and PCR tests will be available from Monash Pathology at the Phillip Island Health Hub, Monday to Friday.

Whether it's roads, bike paths, community halls, streetscapes, sports clubs or support for our hard working and committed volunteers - I'm driven to advocate and deliver projects that make a difference in the lives of our communities.

I always try to consider issues through the lens of compassion and respect. Whether it's championing for the humane treatment of refugees, advocating for a better NDIS, or helping a constituent navigate challenging service areas like aged care, child support or taxation - I feel privileged to serve my community, and am driven by the inspiration of the people I meet and talk to.

State of the art health services are fundamental not just for the services they provide, but for the economic value and social vibrancy they bring to these communities. I'm proud to have delivered $3.5 million for the Wonthaggi Integrated Cancer Centre to ensure that quality care can be given close to home.

But it's not just large amounts of funding that matters. Small grants play a huge role in strengthening our local community organisations, and I take great pleasure in witnessing the positive impacts on the lives of locals.

Mat Morgan - The Greens

Many are describing the sixweek federal election campaign as a ʻmarathon". GreensCandidate for Monash Mat Morgan would tell you that's just the final sprint for a people powered campaign like his. "We've been running with an all-hands-on-deck approach since late last year. Because that's what it takes to change a neglected, "safe" liberal seat like Monash.

The major parties can run their whole campaign over six weeks because they're just screaming matches based on scare campaigns and gotcha moments, funded by dodgy corporate donations which do the campaigning for them now because even their volunteers have disengaged.

It's easy to put materials in evervone's letterboxes when you're accepting millions in fossil fuel industry donations, you just pay for postage.

Last election the UAP were even paying people to hand out for them on election day. It's like we're riding push-bikes to the same destination the other candidates they're driving trucks full of dodgy money their cover fuel costs. To build a people powered campaign to compete with the old party machines, we had to get started early.

The Greens don't accept corporate donations, but this election they're proposing a $1,000 yearly cap on all political donations. This is on top of a whole range of other integrity-based policies listed in their "Politics For People Initiative" which includes supporting, and fast tracking federal anti-corruption commission legislation through the senate by Christmas if Labor win the election.

Our volunteers and I have spent countless hours doorknocking all over the electorate. The top issues that come up constantly from constituents are climate, housing and integrity in politics.

When you see a Greens volunteer at the polling booths on election day, they're quite likely volunteering for the first time. That's because Greens supporters know that we have to step up this time. "It's more important than ever that we put The Greens in the balance of power to hold the next government to account. We'll push the next government to go further on climate by stopping new coal and gas mines, and we'll tackle cost of living pressures by getting dental into Medicare and by addressing the housing crisis, not making it worse!

I see it like this; we need everyone to take one step forward. I was a volunteer last time, this time I'm stepping up to be the candidate. If you voted for us last time, we need you to step up and volunteer. If you voted for a major party last time, we need you to preference us first this time. If just a few hundred people in key seats changed their vote last election, The Greens would've been in the balance of power. We've tried business as usual and look where we are. We're running the biggest Greens campaign Gippsland has ever seen. People are getting involved for the first time and we are making change happen one person at a time. No paid staff, no dodgy donations; people power.'

"Hi, I'm Jessica. I put my hand up this election because I care about people, and I see the urgent need for change in our area. Meg Edwards - Liberal Democrats

"The people of Monash, are clever and capable people. We don't need the government telling us what to do and making all our decisions for us.

We can do that for ourselves, so much better.

I believe in transparency and accountability - what government does do in terms of both decisions and financial management of our money needs to be transparent and essential to regain the huge loss of trust in our government and institutions.

We need someone who is going to stand up for the principles of freedom, liberty, free market and individual.

My skin is in the game in Monash - I grew up on a dairy farm here, bringing up our own children here, schooled in Fish Creek, Leongatha Christian School, Leongatha Tech (back in the day) and Newhaven College before working my first job at the Penguin Reserve.

Later, I lived in Drouin and my work as an Agri and Business Banking Manager covered essentially the same area of Monash.

My partner Carl and I run a small construction business which specialises in sustainable and unique designs, and we are progressively (as time and money allows) improving our grazing farm and its soil with regenerative practices.

I love our region, its beauty from mountains to sea, our productive and precious farmland and most of all I love our people.

"The Australian Federation many have decided to go else-Party is a new party which aims where. Without immigration, to fix our broken democracy. We want to revive representative democracy so that our representatives represent us and speak for us in Parliament. We are committed to listening to the voice of the Australian people.

We have a six-step pact that I and every candidate has signed which commits to introduce innovative processes to gain input from people in our electorates. The major parties don't do this. They think they know what is good for us and impose it on us whether we like it or not.

Australia has never suffered more devastating decisions than the disproportionate "public health" policies of the last two years. These decisions were a continuation of incompetence and corruption in our political system.

Basic freedoms were restricted or removed, many small businesses were destroyed, and extensions of the state now permeate every element of our society and every facet of our lives.

Valid scientific data and compelling evidence was ignored by a political establishment behaving more like those in unaccountable dictatorships.

We have to rebuild the country following this mess. Our institutions are now widely distrusted. The media has lost credibility.

Parliament didn't serve its purpose to hold governments to account and prevent them from over-reach. The police force was used as a tool of the government. All these things should never have happened.

Economically, we are in a perilous state. Border closures and lockdowns forced many potential immigrants to think again about coming to Australia and Monash."

where. Without immigration, we have no economic growth. We no longer make things. We closed down our manufacturing industry. We have the living standards of a First World country, but our economy is on a long-term trajectory towards Third World status.

Ecologically, our country is in deep trouble. Our soils are degrading. Our agricultural capacity is weakening. We need to turn to the strategies of regenerative agriculture to rebuild our farming sector.

Government services mostly dysfunctional. Centrelink is a nightmare for anyone who has to deal with it. NDIS is a massive bureaucracy, with larger corporations buying out smaller providers, the opposite of what it was supposed to be. Mental health services are in crisis, many in urgent need of help have no transport or facilities nearby preventing serious illness and suicide, as they should have. They just pick up the pieces after we fall into a crisis. The aged care sector is a disaster. Older people want real alternatives to institutions, so we can stay at home with support for as long as possible.

While both matters were urgent, there seems to be a disparity between the unilateral decision made for support and funding for Ukraine without parliamentary debate, and the seemingly bilateral support for WHO's Pandemic Treaty which is a real threat to our sovereignty. Why?

There is a lot to do. Let's get to work together.

Take the plunge with Aqua Fitness

Lyn Smith said Phillip Is"Classes are a great way land Swim School's Aqua to mix up a traditional gym Fitness classes have transformed her life.

Lyn suffers from an autoimmune disease called Ankolosing Spondyliti.

"It can make your joints fuse together, which can and does make some days hard to manage," Lyn admitted.

"But after a class I feel invigorated, joints are feeling relief and it's just a great way to start your day.'

For anyone like Lyn dealing with an illness or someone recovering from injury, the classes are the ideal way to exercise in a safe and supervised environment.

"I can't say enough about how welcome I've felt from the owners and trainers. And another bonus is you feel like one big family, and I've made some lovely friends," Lyn said.

As the name suggested, Aqua Fitness is also a great way to exercise and keep fit and healthy.

Suitable for all fitness levels, you don't need swimming skills, just a willingness to take the plunge!

"You'll see a big difference in your overall fitness after a few sessions.

"Because you're exercising in water, it's weight bearing. For older people, or someone with an injury, this means they can do exercises they can't do elsewhere.'

Benefits of Aqua Fitness classes include improved lung capacity, support and relief for muscular systems, injuries and musculoskeletal conditions.

"It also builds core muscle strength, and the water pressure helps put less strain on the heart, by moving blood around the body," said Lucas.

The classes, which have been running for around two years, are open to all age groups and can fit up to 20.

"Our Monday and Wednesday classes at 7.45am are run by Libby Diprose, who has been in the fitness industry for decades," said Lucas.

Rhyll, no longer a sleepy hamlet?

Rhyll is about to get a little states a preliminary tree as- develop the former caravan bit bigger. Again.

Since 2007, Rhyll residents have been fighting overdevelopment on the former Swan Bay caravan park site, on Lock Řoad.

Their battle came to an end when in 2020 VCAT approved a proposal for 9-11 Lock Road for 15 townhouses and the removal of vegetation.

Around the same time, separate plans were released for 5 Lock Road: a $2 million development for seven units, which includes one double storey and six single storey units, as well as the removal of all existing vegetation.

Now a planning permit for 3 Lock Road is seeking to build seven single storey dwellings on a 2045 square metre site for $1.5 million.

In 2020, residents said if 7 Lock Road - located in between 5 and 9-11 - was developed at a later stage, "then cumulatively it could be a very big development".

The 3 Lock Road proposal

sessment found the site has 16 trees, including a Gippsland red gum rated as high value.

While photos show them to be healthy and alive, the arborists' report rated all trees as in poor health or fair-poor.

"The trees on site being removed have been deemed fair to poor in health and structure," the permit states.

The permit argues because housing in the municipality had "become increasingly unaffordable", the development was needed to address "greater diversity in housing types to cater to the community's needs, including housing for older people".

Long history

Dating back to 2007, the old caravan park land has had various rejected proposals, opposed by the community including the group Rhyll RAID (Rhyll Residents Against Inappropriate Development).

In 2007, an application to park was refused by council, after strong community opposition, with objections related to its large scale, access and parking deficiencies, and poor fit within the residential area of Rhyll.

VCAT supported the council decision, on appeal.

second application lodged in 2008 lapsed after the applicant failed to provide further information when requested.

In 2010 a third proposal for two developments was lodged, including an 84-room residential hotel, with a restaurant, meeting room, childcare facilities, café and bar, gym and swimming pool, conference centre and 33 serviced apartments, as well as a retail component, alongside 34 dwellings to be used as serviced apartments. VCAT rejected this plan.

In 2011 plans for a 32-dwelling development and the removal of vegetation was later rejected.

It's a record! 5129 little penguins swam ashore last week, the highest number recorded

Record-breaking penguin crossing

A record 5219 little penguins have swum into shore at Phillip Island and waddled up the beach to their burrows – the highest number recorded since 1968.

It was no fluke, with Phillip Island Nature Park's staff counting more than 4500 penguins the week prior. Each night last week between 3000 and 5000 penguins came in, delighting visitors who are once again packing the stands at the Parade.

Before this, the record was 4435, which was set last year, with the average number of penguins coming home each night in 2021 ranging from around 700 in July to 2300 in November.

Scientists believe an abundance of food close to shore and the population's preparation for an Autumn breeding attempt may be behind the soaring penguin numbers.

"We couldn't believe our eyes when more than 5000 penguins came out of the water in less than an hour," said Phillip Island Nature Parks' Research Technical Officer Paula Wa-

"It's been a penguin party night after night, which is unusual for this time of year, let alone in record numbers like we are seeing now."

The highest number of penguin crossings usually happen during the peak of the breeding season in November and December.

"It appears an abundance of food close to shore is allowing the penguins to gear up for the biggest Autumn breeding attempt we've even seen," Ms Wasiak said.

"While penguins usually breed during Spring and Summer, older, more experienced birds are known to take advantage of a secondary peak in marine productivity in Autumn, which can result in an increase in colony attendance and breeding behaviour.'

The 40,000 strong colony at Phillip Island is the largest in the world, thanks to excellent breeding conditions and the conservation efforts of Phillip Island Nature Parks.

"One of the main areas we're seeing an increase in penguin attendance is to the east of the colony. In the past poor habitat and erosion in this area meant penguins had difficulty accessing and nesting there," said Ms Wasiak.

"A lot of work has gone into improving dune structure, creating penguin pathways and restoring habitat, which is now paying off."

The record penguin numbers come after the Penguin Parade's busiest Easter and school holidays since 2019, with the parade booked out every night.

A return to strong visitor numbers means the Guided Ranger Tour and Ultimate Tour experiences will return nightly from next month.

Tying in with their recent Integrated Studies, students were able to extend their learning in a hands-on way.

They had opportunities to learn about the gold rush and what life was like on the gold

Students also attended costumed schools and were able to consider the differences between the 1850s and now. They tried their hand at writing using inkwells as well as experiencing the strict conditions children were expected to adhere to.

A highlight of the camp was attending the stunning Aura night show, beginning with 3D presentation and continuing on with a light and sound show. It also included the Wadawurrung Creation story and Australian

Regenerating our island

Totally Renewable Phillip Island and Westernport Water joined forces to present the Damon Gameau film "Regenerating Australia" and hosted a Community Social last weekend.

The event at the Penguin Parade included three separate screenings at the Nature Parks theatre and a chance for the community to talk with groups interested in what regeneration could mean for the island.

Representatives from Nature Parks, Westernport Water, Bass Coast Shire Council, Totally Renewable Phillip Island, Phillip Island Business Network, Cosy Homes and Phillip Island Conservation Society attended the

Community members were entertained by local musicians Paul Patten and CAVE-MANverse and were able discuss their ideas of what regeneration on Phillip Island could

A helping hand to research your past

Are you descended from Royalty or perhaps your family comes from "Australian royalty" namely a convict?

Would you like to discover your ancestors? Phillip Island and District Genealogical Society Inc has resources available to help you.

Situated conveniently in Cowes at 56 Chapel Street, online programs such as Find My Past and Ancestry.com are accessible using their recently upgraded computers.

Also, the extensive library may contain information on your family or local area that is not available online.

Society President, Elaine Alexander said everyone was welcome to come in for a chat, discuss their issues and look at the society's resources.

"Our volunteers are available to help you use our computers and facilities including the microfiche reader or CD Roms," Elaine said. 'Many of our members use the software program Family Tree Maker so information sessions on its use and discussions on help solving a "brick wall" are regularly held. "If you would prefer, "one on one" help is available from one of our friendly duty volunteers. Please book an appointment through the secretary (0418 178 343).

Assistance is free for members and the fees for joining the Genealogical Society are $65 for a family and $45 for a single membership. Casual visitors are charged $10 a session.

If you would prefer, paid research on your family may be available.

The Genealogical Society is open Tuesday, Friday and Saturday from 10am to 1pm, and Thursdays from 10am to 4pm. It is also open by appointment.

Developer distress?

How distressing that developer Geoff Moed's plan to opportunistically purchase Newhaven acreage for development some time back, now appear to have been thwarted by bureaucracy. The gentleman proffers that making money was not his main aim, and that he would be doing the shire a great service by providing land for housing and thereby plugging staffing shortfalls on the Island. Seriously? I fear it's just another developer's land grab with the potential of further poorly handled development (like Panorama estate) by our shire burghers. I originally thought the article had missed printing submission time for April Fools' Day edition.

Rob Bishop, San Remo

We're all human

Unbelievable! Children at school are told not to use the words "him" and "her" to identify each other!

Our children are brought up in an area where many of them know that a bull is a male and a cow is a female of their species. A ram is a male and a ewe is a female of their species. Daddy is a man, a male member of the human species and mummy is a woman, an adult human of the female sex. They also understand there is a very good reason for the difference.

Ninety-nine point something per cent of people fit into that definition and most of those who do not could not care less if we refer to each other as him and her and in fact do so as well. Some of the cheeky little darlings even go so far as to refer to each other as him and her, even the trans ones.

With great love for my friends and relatives who are gay, lesbian, trans and "NQS", (not quite sure), if you are a member of the human species, you are entitled to be treated exactly the same as any other. It matters not your height or weight, skin colour or age, the God you worship or political preference you have. Physical or mental ability or disability. If you are a human being, you are a member of my lot and we are all equal members of our humanity. And very importantly, no-one is more important than anyone else! That is what we should be teaching little children.

Ruth Partridge, Ventnor

Rorting and rooting anything but governing

Many of us may not have the patience to know about candidates for the upcoming elec-

A few weeks ago, Deb Leonard, Voices for Monash Independent, asked interested folks to Dimples restaurant for an evening of introductions and what might be possible. Volunteering to distribute brochures and talk to people, it's clear many of us have been brainwashed into thinking a vote for an independent is a waste of a vote – they'll never get into government or be able to "do" anything.

Obviously vested interests have been peddling this propaganda for many years. Take a moment to consider the other side of the coin. Voting for majors means a close battle between parties which are similar, especially so this time. The result? House of Representatives is just an opposing pair, with different tie colours.

With clues on how to self-organise, by Climate 200 and Voices, independents can bring change. Between opposing sides of brawn, surely in between, we can get some independent brain? Voting for majors means practically all just follow the leader.

When you look at how rorts are distributed, despite a Treasurer from Victoria, we get hardly more than Intermodal Depot, split between a state plan at Truganina and now Federal demanding another, up in wilds of Beveridge. Why both?

The Grattan Institute reports more money went to NSW and QLD for the last 15 years. Victoria has 26 per cent of population but only 18 per cent funding, while NSW gets 33 per cent funding, for less than 33 per cent population. Per person, that's almost 50 per cent more!

At the campaign launch, guest and very powerful speaker was Cathy McGowan, famous for winning Indi from Liberal incumbent. Amongst us volunteers, she hustled us to get working, especially raising funds in the community, to help win, and enjoy the surprise of how much funding an independent can return to the community from Canberra.

Bernie McComb, Cowes

Do we need more empty houses?

I read with great interest about a planned housing estate in Newhaven that has been knocked back by the state government.

The landowner suggested that "new housing estates on the island were not popular", and I would have to agree with that sentiment.

What I found interesting was the comment that "new homes were critical to plug staffing shortfalls in businesses and to address the housing shortages".

A bit of analysis would show that a significant number of houses on the island are empty most of the year and if these were filled with families, there would not be a housing shortage, leading to a greater financially viable community and employment opportunities

Just a thought. Robin Lick, Smiths Beach

Cemetery concern

If indeed there was only one "interment of bodily remains" at the San Remo Cemetery during 2020/21 (Council Briefs, Advertiser May 4) share a smile with me in memory of my husband Richard.

Even in death he has scored an "exclusive"! Those who knew him and/or followed his journalistic career, would know how much he loved that word.

On a more serious note, I am very concerned about the pending "solutions to cemetery budget issues" mentioned at the end of the council brief headed "Cemetery loss". I hope those words aren't prescient.

Jane Ross, Co-ordinator, Friends of San Remo Cemetery

Drones over the Cape

For more than six months I have been staring into the night sky on clear nights around Cape Woolamai and have observed what seems to be drones hovering stationary at all points of the compass.

Initially I thought they were stars but on closer observation through binoculars the objects have flashing red, green and white lights.

I wonder if anyone else is intrigued by these sightings and if anyone knows what purpose they serve.

Nick Bartone, Cape Woolamai

Sand mine dismay

As a keen bird watcher, I am dismayed at Minister Wynne's approval of the destruction of the equivalent of eight MCGs of endangered Powerful Owls habitat at Grantville for the extraction of sand.

My partner lives in Deep Creek Street in Grantville, opposite the quarry. She currently has to cope with over 300 trucks a day now to be over 400, the majority double sand trucks. The mine will now operate from 6am to 2am, traffic lights are being installed at the quarry, creating noise and access problems for residents, also disrupting tourists on their way to the Penguins.

Gilbert Smith, Ventnor

Minister favours sand over environment

Minister for Planning, Richard Wynne has given the go-ahead to Dandy Premix Quarries proposed Amendment to its Work Authority on its Grantville site.

Against the wishes of the community, they are now able to do lots of things they promised never to do if they were granted their original work authority in 2013. They now wish to greatly expand their current pit and establish a new one on the site (including removal of vegetation that forms the last remaining biolink north-south between The Gurdies Nature Conservation Reserve and Deep Creek down to the Grantville Nature Conservation Reserve and Colbert Creek).

They also want to deepen their pit below the water table, set up a sand washing and dewatering facility on the site, take more ground water even though it has been fully allocated, increase truck movements from maximum 120 a day to a maximum 240 a day, install traffic lights on the Bass Highway to permit their trucks to make a right-hand turn from their quarry site towards Melbourne, operate for longer hours – 6am to 2am on weekdays and 6am to 10pm on Saturdays and replace Section 173 Agreement with a Section 69 Agreement pursuant to the Conservation, Forests and Lands Act 1987.

Seventy-three submissions came in objecting to some, many or all of their proposals.

Bass Coast resident Professor Dick Wettenhall, former Professor of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology at Melbourne University, and inaugural Director of the University's Bio21 Molecular Science and Biotechnology Institute, prepared an expert witness "Sand Mine Pollution Review".

His report spelt out the risk of sand mining practices polluting Western Port Bay, a Ramsar site, but it seems to have been ignored.

Does anyone in authority take residents considered opinions and arguments seriously? Or does it just tick a box for government to say it has gone through the motions of consultation?

To save Bass Coast's precious remnant pre-European vegetation it needs champions in parliament. Otherwise today's young people and future generations will pay for the consequences of those playing down or ignoring the necessary science.

Meryl Tobin, Grantville

Wins all round for Island soccer

Phillip Island Breakers had a great day at Korumburra.

With the sun shining (sort of) it was still a cold day at Korumburra, although the Phillip Island Breakers Soccer teams were all running hot!

U145

The Under 14s matched up and won against Korumburra City at the Korumburra Reserve.

Coach Frank Licciardi couldn't be prouder of his team with a winning score of 8 – 0.

Goals: Jad Ellaz 3, Kade Ellaz 2, Jasper Saunders 2 and Hamish Farman 1.

Player of the match was awarded to Jad Ellaz for his strong striking skills, and the Bass McDonalds Player Achievement award was awarded to Lochlan Shapardon for his amazing determination in defence.

The whole team communicated and played exceptionally well together.

U12B

Under 12 B team had a convincing win against Burra defeating them 10 – 1

Goal scorers: Angus Farman 5, Hunter Janson 2, Nash Adams, Judd Bland and Jackson Henderson 1 goal each.

Under 17s Girls and Under 17s Mixed teams had Byes this week.

Women's soccer

The Senior Women played away at Korumburra.

In an effort towards advancing gender equality, it was very much appreciated and deserved that Burra officials placed the Senior women's match on the superior main pitch and the Men's Reserves match on the inferior second pitch.

Well done and many thanks to Burra.

The pitch was in good condition and with light winds, it was a lovely day for football.

As pre-agreed between the team's respective coaches the match would be played with reduced numbers due to Burra having only eight players available – albeit those eight were strong-bodied women.

So, the stage was set for a good contest.

Burra made a good contest of the match and the Burra coach's dog was doing its best to bark us off the ball from the sidelines.

It wasn't an easy match; the Burra challenged several times and never went away, and the Island women worked very hard and covered a lot of ground and kilometres to get on top.

The Island women were a little more polished, speedy, cohesive and hardworking than Burra.

The Island earning an 8 –1 victory.

Pauleen managed to score three goals in the first half as a mid-fielder, including an impressive header that was driven into the back of the net from a well delivered corner from Kelly, and Pauleen nicely demonstrated to the younger ladies how to use your body strongly but fairly to win the ball in important contests.

14 year-old Lara covered an enormous amount of ground speeding up and down the left wing all day from left back position. She relished the increased 45 minute half lengths that senior football offers, to overlap attacking plays and quickly transition back to Islands defensive shape, making numerous blocks and then feeding the mid-field the ball with well-placed passes, also scoring a goal for herself.

This tireless and team-oriented effort earned Lara the coaches award for the match.

Kelly was quick and sharp upfront and in coming forward with her back to goal to meet the ball to make an option for our midfielders, covering a lot of ground, being involved in and getting on the end of some good passing sequences from the ladies to nicely finish four goals.

Alyssa was rock solid as sweeper and provided excellent communication and coordination of the Island players in front of her and made sweet contact with the ball when striking some lovely long balls forward.

Elladie's speed and forward pressure was fantastic, effecting a turnover that led to a goal.

Coco's determination and pace was fierce winning the ball back with strong challenges, and made some blistering runs down the right-hand wing when we had the ball, leaving her opponents well in her wake.

Abi was strong in midfield and was a key link between midfield and forwards when Island had the ball, delivering many killer passes and assisting many of the island's goals.

Nat, Kiera, and Amanda were valuable making many critical and brave blocks in defensive and initiated several passing sequences as the Island played out from the back where possible.

Kiera also made some clutch saves in goals in the first half when the game was in the balance. At the end of day, it was a solid win for the ladies and a good confidence booster particularly for our younger and inexperienced women who should be proud of their brave efforts against a strong bodied opposition.

Men's Reserves

The game was played on the small pitch with not much room to move.

Coach Callum Golightly instructed his men to be composed and play to feet, although the Breakers had most of the play, moving the ball around the pitch with precision passing.

Ten minutes in Korumburra struck the ball outside the 18-yard box, and with the assistance of the wind they managed to put the ball past Jarrah.

This goal gave the boys motivation, and they all lifted a notch. Frank Licciardi was a huge presence up front and kept getting the ball put through to his feet.

Although he did miss a few, one of six goals he scored on the day would have put Renaldo to shame (I'm sure we will hear about it for the rest of this season).

Jay Sunderland met the ball to perfection with an awesome header putting it in the net only to be denied by the offside rule.

Goalkeeper Jarah was a wall denying Burra multiple scoring shots. The only let down for the day was the atrocious throw ins by both teams.

However, the Reserves won 9–1.

Senior Men

One would question whether it was soccer they were watching, as Burra were very physical most of the time going for the man not the ball.

The Breakers had two debut players. Matt Thornborrow had a great game and was unlucky not to score.

Another junior player Adam

Another junior player Adam Dean playing on the left wing also played well.

Stuart Bathgate was like a blocked sieve in defence, allowing absolutely nothing through, whilst up front Nathan Cleland dominated.

Solo Scarlett scored the first goal for the day.

Half time break – Breakers 1 - Burra 0.

Coach Daren Dempsey asked the men to lift and be first to the ball.

The second half was very similar to the first with Burra being physical, the Breakers lifted to the challenge and managed to put another three balls past the Bura Keeper.

Tommy was fantastic in goals making several saves.

Whilst the game was played on Mother's Day, Callum Chisolm nearly denied his future bride the enjoyment of parenthood, when he was dribbling the ball forward, a Burra player came from nowhere with a flying karate scissor kick to his groin.

To the amazement of the Breakers players and supporters the wrong-coloured card was given; should've been a red card for sure.

Final scores for the game Phillip Island Breakers 4 – Korumburra 0

With the new clubrooms still under construction, next week we are on the road again to Inverloch.

Basketball Country Champs

Victoria Junior Country Championships were held at Traralgon and Ballarat respectively in April and the Phillip Island Rips boys and girls teams were all excited about the build up to this big event on the basketball calendar.

Phillip Island Rips U14 Boys

It was the first two games that tested the Rips with a 28-to-46-point loss against Yarrawonga Mulwala Lakers and 33-to-65-point battle against Melton Thoroughbreds.

Shaking those two games off, the Island boys had a very convincing 61-to-34-point win against Lakes Entrance Pelicans to top off day one at the Country Champs.

Day two had the Rips team and coach Kris Funslow ready as they took on the teams in Div 5, starting with Foster Breakers.

In the first quarter the Rips led by three points, however, grew the margin by 17 points by half time and kept up their momentum to grab a 45-to-20-point win.

Going into the last round before the finals, the Rips needed to defeat Seymour Blasters and they did with a blistering 19-point lead after the first quarter.

The Island kept the pressure on and had an amazing 63-to-21-point win, blasting their opponents and landing a semi-final game against Morwell Magic.

The Rips showed some magic of their own and once again were impressive on the court by creating opportunities to score and showcasing some great defensive skills and teamwork to come away with a 59-to-23-point win and their spot in the Div 5 grand final against Western Port Steelers.

It is always a spectacle having two great teams play off in a grand final and the Rips and the Steelers did not disappoint.

The Rips, having secured the first quarter 10 to 4 points, saw the Steelers fight back in the second with an 18-to-14-point score line by half Western Port dug in further and shot 17 to the Rips 6 points in the third, however the Rips didn't give up easily and outscored the Steelers in the fourth quarter.

Final score 49 to 42 going Western Port's way.

Congratulations to the Phillip Island Rips U14 boys, coach Kris along with the support of team manager Nicole Moschetti.

Being in a grand final and finishing as Div 5 runners-up at the U14 2022 Junior Country Championships is a great way to cap off the U14 boys' representative basketball

Hecker, were going to have a tough day one at the office.

À super close game one against Horsham Hornets, where the Island just missed out on a win with 17 to 21 points.

They then faced Swan Hill Flyers with a 16-to-38-point loss and then played against the formidable Bendigo Braves, with the Braves taking a 40-to-11-point win.

Last game of the day was against Surfcoast Chargers who took a 30-to-15-point win against the Is-

After four rounds on day one, the Rips team had a gruelling five further rounds scheduled in their Div 5 pool, winning three of the five games against Maryborough Blazers, 42 to 10 points, Melton Thoroughbreds 31 to 11 points and a 44-to-34-point win against Portland Coasters.

This qualified the Rips girls for a semi-final spot against a strong Mansfield Eagles team who took the win against the Island team, 45 to 21 points.

Although Mansfield was strong in the first quarter the Island girls gave it their all and had a great second quarter to come within a fourpoint difference at half time.

The Eagles maintained their momentum and the win in the semi and again in their grand final game.

What a huge effort for the U14 Phillip Island Rips girls who in the two and a half days played an epic

Going into the weekend the team was down two players, however, were so grateful to have two other players step in.

Congratulations on an amazing season with lots of grand final wins to this team, coach Andrew, assistant coach Dean and team manager Nadine Leed.

Phillip Island Rips U12 Boys

Straight in, the U12 boys had an excellent start in game one against Myrtleford Saints where they had a 23-to-14-point lead after the first

They continued with same great plays in the second half and took a 49-to-32-point win.

Game two against Mildura Heat showed that no matter what, the Island boys were going to give it their all and kept the pressure on, only missing out by 11 points at the final buzzer.

Facing Horsham Hornets in game three was going to be another tough match up, with 20 points apiece after the first half, making it anybody's game.

The Phillip Island boys wanted it more and secured a super close 42-to-38-point win to successfully land themselves in Div 1 and 2 for day two of the Junior Country Champs.

The next three games on day two against Geelong United, Ballarat Miners and Bendigo Braves meant that coach Dan Rutherford, assistant coach Dale Robinson and the boys had to play some of the biggest country teams in Victoria.

The Rips, despite missing out on wins, were not deterred as they kept the scores super close and gave it everything they had - 25 to 40 against Geelong, 31 to 42 against Ballarat (with the Rips boys top scoring in the second half) and 21 to 39 against Landing themselves in the Div 2 finals, the boys defeated Mansfield Eagles 50 to 18 in the quarters and Hamilton Hurricanes in the semi-final with a convincing 48 to 34 game.

This took them to the grand final against the Ballarat Miners.

After the first half in the grand final game, the Island boys were only down by two points with a win in their sights, however the Miners dug in and had a strong second half to take the win 49 to 30 points.

Congratulations to the U12 Phillip Island Rips boys team, coach Dan and assistant coach Dale with the support of team manager Lynda Carton, who can celebrate a successful representative basketball season - topping it off with an outstanding grand final Div 2 runnersup position at the U12s 2022 Junior Country Championships.

Phillip Island Rips U12 Girls

Day one at the Country Champs, may have been tough with three losses – 5 to 36 against Traralgon T-Birds, 16 to 36 against Melton Thoroughbreds and 6 to 45 points Hamilton Hurricanes. You would think that the spirit of the team would have been discouraged, but these Island girls, coach Cam Long and assistant coach Michael O'Connor were ready for day two and were not going to give up.

Landing themselves in Div 3 and 4 on day two, the U12 girls played Maffra Eagles first up and had a great first half, however Maffra had a strong second half and took a 23-to-13-point win.

In the next game against Wangaratta Warriors, both teams had spectators on the edge of their seats, however this time the Island team secured a 33-to-28-point win.

The last game on day two was another big one against Western Port Steelers where the girls had a slow start and despite gaining momentum in the second half, missed out on a win with the final score of 30 to 11 going the Steeler's way.

The business end of the Junior Country Champs was on day 3 and the Island girls landed themselves in the Div 4 quarter finals - a great outcome.

The Rips girls convincingly defeated Morwell Magic 22 to 13 points, which secured their spot in the semi-final against Pakenham Warriors.

In the second half against the Warriors the Rips picked up the intensity and took a nail biting 27-to-21-point win, sending the team into the grand final against Western Port Steelers for a second

After a strong start for the Steel ers in the grand final in the first half, it was always going to be a tough ask to catch up, however coach Cam did not give up and the girls gave it their all with a brilliant Div 4 runners-up position at the U12s 2022 Junior Country Championships with support from assistant coach Michael and team manager Kristal O'Connor.

That is almost a wrap for the 2021-22 Phillip Island Rips representative basketball season, with the U12 Phillip Island Rips girls playing their last tournament in their season in June.

Each age group, from U10s to U18s, have had a great season with many highlights and grand final wins or runners-up finishes.

Island netballers take on Inverloch

The Phillip Island under 11s played a great but hard game on Saturday morning against Inverloch-Kongwak. All the girls did such an amazing job trying their hardest on court.

Scores Phillip Island 8 and Inverloch-Kongwak 12.

The award winners this week are Tiffany Clarke and Evie Hollings. Well done to all the girls.

The rain held off, but there was a definite chill in the air and after a two-week break, the girls started really slowly.

Inverloch applied great pressure and it worked.

It was an anticipated big game as both teams were undefeated and our Island girls looked nervous.

A cold and wintery morning was going to be a challenge for the U17 girls against Inverloch.

With Ella and Shanae out with injuries, some trusty U15s stepped up and proved to be an asset to the team.

Ahlee, Lexi and Ruby started in defence and put pressure on the Inverloch shooters from the get-go.

The reliability of Isla and Zoe in midcourt continues to be effective, using agility and speed to get the ball to the goalers.

Lily and Meika (up from U15s) played an awesome game together with great movement and accurate shooting in the attacking end, the Inverloch defenders getting frustrated with their teamwork.

Daisy came on in the second half at WD and put some tight pressure on the Inverloch attackers, while Sophia also coming up from the U15s showed that she was very capable by pulling in some great intercepts throughout the second half of the game.

Thanks to Meika and Sophia for playing and doing a superb job!

The girls started the game off well and contested every loose ball.

Inverloch came out firing and were leading the way for most of the quarter, but the Island girls fought so hard to contest every loose ball.

Alice, Lilly and Teash moved really well in the mid court, and Jaz, Nikki and Tay were working really hard in the defence.

Inverloch had a lot of experience, but this didn't stop our attackers Jules and Bella from working as a team to get the ball from our super speedy mid courters and turn them into goals.

They fought for every ball, but unfortunately lost.

Well, it wasn't the usual pregame preparation the girls were used to.

Out with the sunscreen and in with the layers upon layers to keep warm from the Arctic blast that was blowing a gale down at the Cowes courts.

Going into the game the girls knew it was going to be a very hard-fought battle with Inverloch-Konwak being equal points on the ladder.

The girls had a great start, converting each centre pass and getting some good breaks along the way.

They held a steady lead moving into half time, but the Invy girls never backed down.

Pony Club report

Club flung open our paddocks to hold the Southern Metro and West Gippsland Zones Mounted Games Clinic & State Team Qualifiers.

The Clinic on the Saturday was open to all Pony Club members across the region of all ages and abilities, and we had a great turnout of 16 riders throughout the day, including members from Warragul, Mirboo North, Main Ridge, Corner Inlet, Tarwin Lower and of course Phillip Island Pony club.

The Clinic was run by games coach Laurie Cruise and Australian Under 18 world team member Gemma Vanderdyt assisted with PIPC members Giselle and Gabe.

The Clinic was set up in the jumps arena to introduce all the riders to some great fun games.

The groups were split into 2 sessions with 4 riders with an hour and half of fun and learning was had.

A few of the games included bending, mug shuffle, sock drop and some different relays.

There was a lot of smiles and fun throughout the day with new friends being made from all the different

Last month Phillip Island Pony stayed away) the riders were up and ready to go early to put in place what they had learnt from the clinic the day before in the individuals come and try session held out on the oval.

All the kids and ponies did great in the morning with some great riding on show and it was especially nice to hear them all encouraging each other throughout the races.

You couldn't have asked for a better introduction to Mounted Games and a huge thank you to all the coaches, helpers, and parents that assisted over the weekend.

Special mention to Tash Robinson for organising such a memorable weekend, it was much appreciated as you sure could tell with all the kids and their huge smiles.

In the afternoon it was time to for the Mounted Games Vic State Team Zone Qualifiers to start.

Six teams of seven riders competed from across the Southern Metro and West Gippsland Zones with 4 riders requiring to be under the age of 16.

They competed over 8 different games including a baton relay and Flag and Drum Race. There was certainly a diverse range of teams, and horses that included breeds of Shetlands and thoroughbreds and everything in between.

It was exciting for all to watch with jam packed action and great to see lots of support from other team riders and the crowd.

A big congratulations to the West Gippsland Zone Composite team made up with Phillip Island Pony club very own members Gabe and Giselle Smith who came away with the win and will be off to the next qualifiers.

Good luck team! A huge thank you to San Remo

Butchers and Bakers Delight Cowes for their kind donation of sausages, hamburgers and bread to help raise money for the club over the weekend.

A big thank you again to all the parents and members that helped put on such a successful great weekend, special mention to DC Amy Wooley who manned the BBQ and provided supplies and Wendy Christensen for assisting in the judicial roles for the state qualifiers.

Phillip Island Pony club will be holding their AGM at the pony club on Tuesday, May 17 at 7.30pm and our next home rally will be on Sunday, June 5.

riding? 9 years old

How long have you had your horses for? I have had Blue for one year and Fly just a couple of months.

How old were you when you started

When did you start at PIPC? When I was 10.

What's your favourite discipline and why? Mounted Games - because a lot of strength and agility is required in both horse and rider. I also love the places you get to travel and the amazing new friends I get to meet.

What's the best thing about PIPC? The best thing is how it's like a little close-knit community with everyone pitching in to run it. Also now being a senior member, I love helping and teaching the younger kids.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank local Petstock in Cowes for their sponsorship and support, in my aim in making the Australian Team for the World Mounted Games 2023.

Junior footballers in a Mother's Day marvel

We took on a very slick outfit this week in Kilcunda Bass Panthers and it was hard footy right from the start in slippery conditions.

The Reds kept the ball moving and in turn provided the forwards with quality shots on goal.

Max Robinson was huge again as he extracted the ball from packs often with opposition players hanging off him. First gamer Chaze Poulton found his feet quickly firing off a perfect handball to a running teammate.

The second quarter saw us hitting the scoreboard as Oliver Hellmuth-Pask dominated across centre half forward taking multiple marks and setting up Ziggy Wagner for a goal.

Time and time again we kept our feet and took the ball away from the pack using handballs to find space with Hugh Wain leading the way.

We continued the run in the third quarter and started linking up the mid field and forwards to have plenty of shots on goal while the backline stood up to all challenges.

The teamwork was a shining light as the Red's put-on shepherds and tackled ferociously.

The backline was under pressure in the last quarter but remained organised and composed as they repelled entries time after time.

Louis Brodie laid a huge tackle and is growing into a great all-rounder for the Pups. The team showed growth once again and played the game in the right spirit.

Big thanks to Beau Vernon and the seniors for including the U10s on Saturday in what was a huge win for the club against Inverloch Kongwak.

It was great for the Pups to see how the big boys prepare and I'm sure they all took a lot from it.

The sky was dark and cloudy when got in a few cheeky solid marks.

Sunday Brisbane on the run in the Breakers match against Pearcedale

Breakers win in windy conditions

The Breakers were met with windy condition for their Saturday morning match against Pearcedale.

To their surprise the opposition won the toss and elected to kick into Switched on from the start the Breakers came out ready to play and made the most of the wind advantage kicking 6.3 to nil for the quarter.

The mid field provided plenty of ball into the forward line with Sophie McCracken-Evans continuing her good form in the ruck feeding it down to Jenna Russo, Sunday Brisbane and Tess Wingfield.

Once inside the forward 50, Kelly O'Neill and Ella Cargill marked strongly and Immy Bradford was slick in front of goal converting two first quarter opportunities.

The highlight for the quarter was a textbook chain of play where Bradford converted a goal on the run just 10 seconds after the centre bounce.

The Breakers controlled the ball into the wind in the second quarter.

Despite dominating possession, the Breakers were only able to kick five points.

They however maintained a solid advantage again keeping Pearcedale scoreless, with Chelsea Connell, Stacey Poke and Courtney Fletcher creating a wall across half back.

With a strong lead of 6.8 to nil at half time the second half allowed Coach Bianca Hellmuth-Pask to try some players in different positions.

Kate Caughey showed some promising signs converting two goals in the second half.

Next week the Breakers travel to Warragul to take on the Dusties on Saturday night.

Final score: Breakers 11.12-78 def Pearcedale 1.0-6.

Best players: O'Neill, Bradford, Mc-Cracken Evans, Connell, Wingfield and Russo.

Bass Coast big dogs battle it out

Excitement and tension abounded early on Saturday as the PIFNC team readied the Kennel for the long-awaited home game against our Bass Coast neighbours from Inverloch-Kongwak.

With a juicy 1 v 2 main game dubbed the Bass Coast Blockbuster in the Barracker - and a serious test against undefeated teams across the other grades, a great day of community football loomed.

Combined with the family day for the juniors, the only downside was the inclement weather initially being driven by a howling westerly into the trees at the Chapel Street

The loss of footies to that end loomed large!

A special luncheon honouring departed life members Barry Toovey and Ian Hill was attended by 80 long term Bulldogs support-

This was topped off in the social rooms after the game with a heartwarming welcome to the newest Bulldogs life member Kristien Formosa - not often you see the Big-H stuck for words, but it was wonderful to see!

Well done and well-deserved H!

Seniors

The Bulldogs Under 10s were super excited to join the team meeting for the Bulldogs, as well as the pre-game address, and this certainly added to the excitement and atmosphere in the rooms.

U10 coach Luke Marshall had his hands full keeping the excitement in check, whilst the seniors really enjoyed and welcomed the U10s involvement.

Both the Bulldogs and the Sea-Eagles were listed close to full strength for the main game.

And what a classic opening!

With the ball pinging from one end to the other with precision rarely seen at this level, a frenetic opening saw eleven goals scored in the first despite the ordinary conditions.

Goals were flowing at both ends, with Inverloch's Ethan Park and Toby Mahoney leading the charge, closely followed by the Bulldogs array led by Cam Pedersen, Kai Mackenzie, and Zak Vernon.

The backlines were under extreme pressure and were being sorely tested.

Alas, to make the conditions ever trickier, the second saw a lovely set of rain showers combine with the Half time saw the U10s play their own scratch matches – in the rain no less, with not much time for jumper turnarounds for Sunday's games!

The seniors formed a guard of honour for the boys coming from the ground – a wonderful way to keep the excitement going.

In the third quarter the Sea-Eagles took over.

With Oscar Toussaint and Xavier Hughes taking over, as well as Tristan Van Driel scoring goals, the boys from Inverloch took complete control.

With a six-goal blitz before a

Pedersen and Jack (Bison) Taylor, the visitors headed into the final stanza with a three-goal lead.

With Coach Vernon reminding the bulldogs of their excellent fitness and capabilities to withstand the onslaught, the final quarter was a complete reversal of the third.

The Bison took over in the forward line. Kai Mackenzie reassumed control on his wing, Cam Pederson asserted even more control in the ruck and Zac Vernon led the charge in the midfield.

The Bulldogs peppered the goals with a five goal to zip final quarter to run out winners in a super-exciting last quarter.

A wonderful effort from both teams played in an excellent spirit, which bodes well for each outfit for the remainder of the year.

It was obvious from the first bounce that Inverloch "had come to play" and take the four premiership points home with them.

The Bulldogs welcomed back Tully Dickie after his long layoff with a leg injury, but it was going to be a tough assignment to keep the Sea Eagles under control.

Our backline was under constant pressure but stood firm against the high marking opposition.

The Jacks - Papas and Johnston along with Lucas Chihotski and the rest of the defence stood firm and only allowed the opposition to kick one goal for the quarter.

The final quarter was a replica of the third although the Bulldogs never gave up against the talented Inverloch side and only allowed a single goal to be scored against them in this last term.

The coach was disappointed with the result but never questioned his teams endeavour and believing his charges will learn from the game.
